

Seminário aberto:

Burrneshat: sworn virgins of Albania

Resumo: Burrneshat é um conceito que define mulheres que fazem um voto de castidade e usam roupas masculinas para viver como homens na sociedade patriarcal do norte da Albânia.

Emira Gerguri is a recent graduate of International Relations Bachelor Studies in Corvinus University of Budapest. She has finished internships in Portugal and Italy through the Erasmus program. She has also completed an internship at the Albanian Embassy in Budapest. Emira has written research about women's rights and safety at her previous internship in Porto where she also held an open session about these issues. Since she studied International Relations, Emira is quite familiar with the recent research methodologies. She is excited to work and help around the community and get informed with the latest issues in Kosovo.